

Bare Root Consulting Client Reference

Ben is an incredibly efficient worker, passionate about the local food system, and has a strong entrepreneurial spirit. While hiring my first full time employee as a young food industry CEO a few years ago, Ben provided a tremendous amount of guidance and insight throughout the process. He helped take my abstract vision for the role and distill my ideas into a clear job description, advertise the role through the best niche channels, and interview and vet the optimal candidate. I would not have successfully realized this major milestone without Ben's knowledge and support, and he is a true asset to the food and broader business communities.
