We have worked with Vivid Agency on many design projects for our clients at Portland Old Port. When the work calls for high end custom design, including websites, we bring Vivid in. That has covered new sites, rebuilds, and the custom design that sits around a launch or a major client presentation. These are not template jobs. The client is paying for work that looks considered, and Vivid is the studio we trust with that.

They take a brief and turn it into a finished design without a lot of extra process. The work is custom, it looks like it was made for that client, and it holds up when we put it in front of people. We have used them more than once for that reason. I recommend Vivid Agency to other Maine businesses that need strong, high end design and web work.
