

I am writing to share my experience working with Distant Lighthouse during their time collaborating with our company, Manaflo.

Distant Lighthouse supported us in the development of our web application, contributing across both planning and implementation. They assisted in building key features and worked through technical challenges. Throughout the process, they communicated effectively and adapted well to our project needs.

Their involvement played a meaningful role in progressing the application and supporting our overall development efforts.

Sincerely;
Joseph Han
Founder
Manaflo