

Emily was instrumental in building Everytable's financial infrastructure from the ground up. She has exceptional ability to pull data from disparate systems, synthesize it into meaningful metrics, and present it in a way that informed real business decisions - not just reports for the sake of reporting. Her combination of data mining expertise and advanced Excel skills meant we could track what actually mattered - cost drivers, growth levers, etc. As our needs evolved, she quickly adapted the frameworks and reporting to match where we were headed, not just where we'd been. I'd work with Emily again without hesitation.
