Reference for Betsy Tuohey

“Betsy Tuohey’s competency blends strategic thinking, operational competency, intellectual discipline and exceptional people communication skills that quickly lead to building trust. Betsy was instrumental in the development of the Mercy School of Business strategic plan this past spring. The is now being implemented with a focus on student success, and entail reorganizing our systems with measurable milestones related academic achievements and career success. From the initial research and meticulous elaboration that considered various strategic alternatives, to the careful coordination for a successful implementation, Betsy contributed by asking the right questions, identifying and building relationships with key value adding stakeholders. Her work has yielded a robust framework that is already producing positive outcomes for our organization, the school of business in particular. I am therefore enthusiastically endorsing Betsy as capable professional who is solutions oriented and can make a positive difference in your organization.”
