To whom it may concern,

This letter is to recommend Dr. Anthony Bucci as a consultant for mathematical and data analysis, data science, software development, modeling and simulation projects. His technical and analytical skill, coupled with his attention to detail, are second to none.

As the founder and CEO of Cienaga Systems, an AI-driven cybersecurity firm, I have worked with Anthony for 10 years, having met via a trusted colleague to discuss applying evolutionary algorithms in cybersecurity. During this time, Anthony has demonstrated persistence, ingenuity, and creativity in approaching difficult technical problems. His technical knowledge and analytical practice led to several new initiatives and business connections we still value today.

Anthony's deep scientific knowledge of machine learning and optimization distinguishes him from other researchers and consultants in this space. He was able to analyze network data from several of our customers and find anomalous traffic patterns we alerted them to in a short span of time.

I can say without hesitation that Anthony will add value to any project he's brought into. He is a critical thinker with a strong ability to apply mathematics to solving real life problems. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to me.

Sincerely,

Inigo Merino
