

09.09.2023

A peer and former colleague writes:

I am writing this letter to wholeheartedly recommend Stacey Huth as an exceptional professional who is embarking on a new venture in the field of product development consulting. Stacey and I were colleagues at Abbott diagnostics where I witnessed her remarkable technical expertise and project management skills. Among her many achievements, one that impressed me the most was when she spearheaded the BinaxNOW Covid test development. The high quality and timely product was a direct result of her dedication and passion, as well as her keen ability to identify innovative solutions to bring tangible products onto the market. In addition to her technical expertise, what sets Stacey apart is also her superior interpersonal and communication skills. Many colleagues benefited from Stacey's collaborative approach with others and her ability to articulate complex concepts clearly and effectively. I have no doubt that Stacey will excel in her endeavor and become a trusted partner to any organization seeking to innovate and bring exceptional products to the market. I am excited to see the impact Stacey will make in this industry and have no reservation in endorsing her service. Thank you for considering my enthusiastic recommendation of Stacey.

You Korlann, PhD