It is with immense pleasure that I recommend Altimetry Consulting, LLC for their exceptional consulting services, particularly in Executive Strategy and Program Management. Their engagement with our clients was truly transformative, directly contributing to the success of our critical data modernization efforts.

Dr. Anna Thomas consistently demonstrated a profound ability to partner with our executive-level clients. They were instrumental in not only setting ambitious yet achievable strategies but also in rigorously executing those plans to scale our data modernization initiatives. Their expertise in navigating complex organizational structures and translating high-level vision into actionable programs was truly remarkable.

The impact of their work was evident in the tangible progress we made and the recognition they rightfully received. Their programs were so successful that they garnered awards from the client, a testament to the significant value and positive change they delivered.

One particularly notable achievement was highlighted by an award recognizing their role as the Talent Team Lead. In this capacity, Dr. Anna Thomas successfully designed, developed, and created a Learning Program that simultaneously built skills in data science for cohorts across the agency and helped our business achieve its mission goals to scale data modernization across agency staff. The most recent cohort concluded with a Skills Showcase, an event so impactful that our CIO, CSO, CDO, and CTO all attended to hear about the program's impact and the skills developed by the learners. This exemplifies their strategic acumen and their dedication to delivering measurable, high-impact results.

Altimetry Consulting's professionalism, insightful guidance, and unwavering commitment to our success make them an invaluable partner. Any organization seeking to undertake complex strategic initiatives, especially in the data and technology space, would greatly benefit from their expertise.

Kind regards,
