I had the pleasure of working with Gunnar and Mike on The Nature Conservancy's Maine office remodel, which became the state's first WELL Certified project and achieved LEED Gold. Their deep understanding of sustainability, health, and building performance brought a global standard for excellence in workplace design to our project. They skillfully guided our team through every stage of certification with clarity and collaboration, and they facilitated connections with project partners that shared our environmental, wellness and workplace culture goals. Our office in Maine is now the envy of our entire organization, and a place where our team is excited to work every day. Gunnar and Mike's professionalism, creativity, and technical insight made a lasting impact and helped demonstrate what a truly sustainable and healthy workplace can be.
