To Whom it May Concern:

This letter is my personal recommendation for Trevor Gionet. I have known Mr. Gionet since 2013 when he was working on a development contract for Chimani, Inc. He then worked for me for a span of about a year at Introspective Systems. I served as an advisor for a startup, AIGronomy, founded by Mr. Gionet and Mr. Gionet has done a remarkable job as our CTO at Omnic.AI. During the times Mr. Gionet worked with my supervision, he was always professional, courteous, and one of the hardest working individuals I have met in my 32+ working years.

I have observed Mr. Gionet first hand in many settings. I have found his knowledge of technology skills to be exceptional, and his energy and ability to motivate people remarkable. On many occasions I observed him rapidly and professionally solve difficult problems and efficiently troubleshoot computer, technology, and networking issues. Mr. Gionet is quick thinking and performs well under pressure. Mr. Gionet displayed a high level of motivation, ethical decision making, and organizational ability in performing complex systems analysis and balancing product technology decisions. I cannot emphasize it enough; Mr. Gionet is an extremely hard working individual with a desire to expand his skills that any organization would find invaluable.

I highly recommend Trevor. He is extremely resourceful and would make a fantastic asset to any organization.
